DALLAS, SATURDAY, NOV. 11

Whom First we Love.

BY JULIA WARD HOWE.

Whom first we love, you know we seldom wed!
Time rules us all. And life indeed, is not
The thing we planned it out ere hope was dead;
And then we women cannot choose our lot.
Much must be borne which it is hard to bear;
Much given away which it indeed was sweet to keep.
God help us all! who need indeed His care.
And yet, I know the Shepherd loves His sheep.
My little boy begins to babble now
Upon my knee his earliest infant prayer:
He has his father's eager eyes, I know,
And they say, too, his mother's sunny hair.
But when he sleeps and smiles upon my knee,
And I can feel his light breath come and go,
I can think of one—Heaven help and pity me!
Who loved me, and whom I loved, long ago.
Who might have been—ah! what I dare not think.
We are all changed. God judges for the best.
God held us to our duty, humbly, and not shrink,
And trust in heaven humbly for the rest.
But blame us women not, if some appear
Too cold at times and some too gay and light;
Some griefs gnaw deep; some woes are hard to bear;
Who knows the past? And who can judge us right?
Ah, were we judged by what we might have been,
And what we are—to apt to fall!
My little child—he sleeps between
These thoughts and me. In Heaven we shall know all.

Traveling Stones.

Many of our readers have doubtless heard of the famous traveling stones of Australia. Similar curiosities have been found in Nevada, which are described as almost round, the majority of them as large as a walnut, of an iron nature. When distributed about upon the floor, table, or other level surface within two or three feet of each other, they immediately began traveling toward a common centre, and there huddled up in a bunch like a lot of eggs in a nest. A single stone, removed to the distance of three and a half feet, upon being released at once started with wonderful and somewhat comical celerity, to join its fellows! taken away four or five feet, it remained motionless. They are found in a region that is a comparative level, and is nothing but bare rock. Scattered over this barren region are little basins, from a few feet to a rod in diameter, and it is in the bottom of these that the rolling stones are found. They are from the size of a pea to five or six inches in diameter. The cause of the stones rolling together is doubtless to be found in the material of which they are composed, which appears to be loadstone or magnetic iron ore.

CHICAGO FIRE.—A remarkable instance of courage and presence of mind is told of Mr. E. I. Tinkham, of the Second National Bank. On Monday morning, before the fire had reached that building, Mr. Tinkham went to the safe and succeeded in getting out $600,000. This pile of greenbacks he packed in a common trunk, and hired a colored man for $1,000 to convey it to the Milwaukee depot. Fearing to be recognized in connection with the precious load, Mr. Tinkham followed the man for a time at some distance, but soon lost sight of him. He was then overtaken by the fire storm, and was driven toward the lake on the south side. Here, after passing through several narrow escapes from suffocation he succeeded in working his way, by some means, to a tugboat, and got round to the Milwaukee depot, where here he found the colored man waiting for him, with the trunk, according to promise. Mr. Tinkham paid him $1,000, and started for Milwaukee. The money was safely deposited in Marshall & Hiseley's bank of that city.

Facts and Fancies.

Foot Notes—Shoemaker's bills.
A tidy drink—Neat brandy.
A tail that never wags—A cart tail.
Unpleasant strains of music—Cracked voices.
Maid of honor—Those who do not jilt their suitors.
When a lady faints, what figure does she need? You may bring her 2.
Some husbands, though anything but sharp, are awfully shrewd.
Brigham Young is three score and ten, so are his wives.
Few amateurs can play Shylock—Few actors can do a Jew.

In regard to newspapers, young ladies prefer those which make the most bustle.
Woman's rights women may yet aspire to position in the navy; Lot's wife was an old salt.

It's your tall fellows who are luckiest in love. Your ladies are all in favor of Hy-men.

Why is a feeble man like a nail driven up to the head in a post?—He is in firm.

Josh Billings says "knowing how to sit square on a bile, without hurting, is one of the lost arts."

A young girl may be sure a man loves her unutterably when he sits in her presence for an hour without speaking.

When Horace Greeley is asked what kind of music he prefers, he answers, "the song of the harvest, three beats to the measure."

"What," asked Margarita of Cecilia, "what, dearest, do you think is really the food of Cupid?" And Cecilia answered, "Arrow-root."

A Western paper accuses a contemporary of "dirty meanness," and frankly adds: "We want him to understand that two can play at that game."

"Why do you call me birdie, my dear?" inquired a wife of her husband. "Because," was the answer, you are always associated in my mind with a bill."

A man named Pepper gave a party, and one of his guests on entering the room exclaimed, "My dear Mr. Pepper how glad you must be to see your friends mustered!"

A blind mendicant who frequents the Rue St. Honore has the following announcement affixed to his bosom—"Blind! Father of four children—the result of a terrible accident!"

A person who was sent to prison for marrying two wives, excused himself by the gross libel on the gentle sex, that when he had one she fought him, but when he got two they fought each other.

An Englishman having paid an Irish shoeblack with rudeness, was thus accosted by the "dirty urchin": "My honey, all the polish you have is upon your boots, and I guv you that!"

An old farmer, who was asked by an impertinent attorney if there were any pretty girls in his neighborhood, answered: "Yes, sir, lots of 'em; so many that they can't all find respectable husbands, and lately some of 'em's been taking up with lawyers."

"I was not aware that you knew him," said Tom Smith to an Irish friend the other day. "Know him?" said he, in a tone which comprehended the knowledge of more than one life, "I knew him when his father was a boy."

"I believe that mine will be the fate of Abel, said a devoted wife to her husband one day. "How so?" replied the husband. "Because Abel was killed by a club, and your club will kill me if you continue to go to it every night."

They were discussing a masquerade and endeavoring to select the characters in which they should go. "How shall I go?" said our very tall and slender friend William. "Chalk your head and go as a billiard cue," was the response.

"Tell that man to take off his hat in court," said a judge, the other morning, to an officer. The offender, who turned out to be a woman, wearing the fashionable sailor hat, indignantly exclaimed, "I am no man sir." "Then I am no Judge," said his honor.

A mother who had with her a little daughter, was examining the figure of a horse on a tombstone, and wondering of what it was an emblem. There was nothing to explain it in the inscription. "Mamma," said the little one, as they moved away "I shouldn't wonder if she died of the nightmare!"

Said a fop to a young lady, "That gold ring on your finger is emblematic of my love for you, because it has no end." "And it is emblematic of mine for you," said the lady, "because it has no beginning."

A man lost his wife, and had a stone erected over her grave. He married a second wife; when she died he had the gravestone split, and it thus served for the two departed. He proposed to a third; but she declined the offer with the remark, "I do not believe that stone will split again."
